

firmament 51

a new magazine.

a new literary sphere in which you will find expressed the cultural heritage of our hebraic forefathers.

a new microcosm which, when revealed in the light of the artistic medium best suited to the people from whom we are descended, is designed to convey and to emphasize the intangible, almost mystical spirit which is carried within us, and which has in turn carried us to our present temporal position.

a new atmosphere in which are combined, under favorable conditions for growth, our people's instinctive capacities for art, music, and letters.

In fact, a new genesis, a coming-into being beginning now, with us, within us, based upon the ancient culture and emotional foundations with which we were born and which make us what we are, and expressed in mediums as dateless as man.

"and God said: 'let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters.' "
