Dialogue

The National Conference of Christians and Jews believes that men and women of different views and of different races can reduce friction and misunderstanding by talking frankly with one another. So, the local chapter of the NCCJ, several years ago, started a television program in which Protestant, Catholic and Jewish leaders meet in unrehearsed 'dialog'. Above is a scene from one of these programs. It is on at 7:30 p.m. every Saturday, over WKRC.

Our Rabbi in the Community:

TORAH DEDICATION

Our Torah Dedication was a huge success. Over 300 attended the festivities with hundreds more lining the parade route.

After appropriate hymns and songs, and eloquent speeches, the attendees were invited to sign two parchments to mark the occasion and perpetuate their participation in this rare Mitzvah. The scrolls are being framed and will be permanently displayed in a place of prominence in the Synagogue.

It is a tradition that when one participates in a Torah Dedication, he donates to the Synagogue for the honor conferred upon him in allowing him to add his name to the ever-growing legions who support the Torah and the Synagogue. We did not want to detract from the dignity and sanctity of the occasion by soliciting funds at the time of signing, but we do invite you to send in your contribution to our Sefer Torah Fund, now.
