

Eve had two sons.

The first, Cain, was a tiller of the ground. The second, Abel, was a feeder of flocks.

They both brought offerings to their Creator.

Cain, who offered some of his produce from the harvest, chose food of inferior quality.

Abel, choosing his sacrifice with care, offered the first-born of his flock.

R. BLUM