

Now, as we conclude this touching and meaningful service, we pray that the inspiration gleaned therefrom be with us during the years that lie ahead.

The brevity of life only serves to emphasize the need for our kind and warm consideration for each other. Life is only purposeful if measured in terms of what we can do for our fellow man. This was the example set by our worthy forebears. May we prove to be their successors by emulating their beautiful "standard of life."