

Dear Sisters:

A joyous Chanuka and a successful "Donor" is the best possible combination of events.

Very soon, we shall celebrate the festival of candles, or lights, in the traditional ways. Belonging to an organization such as J.W.V.A. is traditional too, for every Jewish woman wants to be affiliated with a group actively interested in helping those less fortunate than herself. Charity and service to others is as much a part of Judaism as the reading of the Torah.

May each Donor event find us together greater in number, and better established in our community.

Sincerely,

Pearl Goldhagen
